Regional Seed Service

The seed bank is proud of its position as a nationally recognised leader in the field of provenance based seed supply. The strong quality control and data management procedures together with a program of best practice development ensure that the seed bank is able to deliver quality, appropriately sourced, genetically diverse seed for major projects.

The seed bank services approximately 40% of Victoria and provides active support throughout the state and southern NSW. Rated highly on our criteria is the development of best practice, ethical sourcing and utilisation of seed and research to improve our knowledge, use and management of seed.

Seed bank staff are experienced in all aspects of indigenous seed supply and natural resource management as well as being skilled in financial management. Members of the seed bank executive committee are drawn from all sectors of the Natural Resource management field to ensure that the seed bank is actively engaged with the organisations and community groups that it services.

Send this message to our funders:

Dear Mr. Howie,

I write to appeal to you to stop the proposed funding cuts to the casework practice of Fitzroy Legal Service (FLS).

FLS is an important service that has been serving the community for over thirty years. The work of the casework practice has consequently enabled marginalized clients to inform the policy, law reform and community development work of the FLS.

Due to the long term history of FLS casework practice, FLS has fostered excellent relationships with clients and the community. Over the last three decades, the community has come to expect and rely on the consistent services of FLS. It is unfair to the community to cut funding to such a significant service. The casework practice is a core service of the night service, which has operated for 1

As a concerned community member and supporter, I am calling for immediate action.

Yours sincerely,

[Submit your own message of support for FLS]
